

Theory of Information Service

Syllabus Number

LIH-104

Librarians' Program

Elective 2 credit

UEOKA, Makiko

1. Course Description

The primary objective of this course is to understand the significance of information service. Focusing on reference service as one the essential functions, students will develop knowledge of various information resources, efficient information retrieval, and databases. Students will also learn reference process, effective communication with users, information literacy and library-generated content. This course is a prerequisite for Information Service Workshop.