

Introduction to Education of Children with Learning Impairments

Syllabus Number

SNE-210

Elective

2 credit

KAMACHI, Keiko

1. Course Description

Around 6% of all children display the signs of developmental impairment . The government is taking initiatives to promote special needs education. In this class, taking the concept and system of special needs education as a base, we will cover a wide range of developmental impairments, including LD, ADHD, high-functioning autism and Asperger's syndrome. We will also spend time examining and discussing real examples of each type of disability and the methods for accommodating them