

經济学演習 I

Compulsory 2
credit

GUO, Sizhi

1. Course Description

At the graduate level, it is important to learn the theory and knowledge on the international economy and China / emerging economies economy, and at the same time to develop problem finding, survey / analysis and research capability accurately using theory and knowledge. In the previous term, we will analyze and study international economies including China and other emerging economies from both sides of macro and micro. And I would like to discuss global economic problems with students.