

Management 2

Syllabus Number

MAN-102

[IV]

Elective

2

credit

ISHIGE, Hiroshi

1. Course Description

Management is indispensable for the efficient realization of the company's philosophy and goals. In addition, management has become an indispensable ability not only for companies but also any other workplace. In this course, you will learn a wide range of problems that people have faced with management and various management theories to solve them.

In the 2nd semester, you will learn the basics of corporate activities such as personnel management, production management, sales and marketing, and financial management.