The Japanese Language Course

1. Course Description

This course focuses on the three kinds of “messages” which are to be learned in order to deliver an effective presentation in English. The first message that students need to acquire is “the physical message” – how to make an eye-contact, how to inflect your voice, and etc. The second one is “the visual message” – how to create effective visuals. The third is “the story message” – how to divide your presentation into the introduction, the body, and the conclusion.
