1. Course Description

Is it the only problem with the history to remember the dates and years ? Not at all, because human beings make history, and so the act of writing it. In this class focusing in histories from Ancient Mediterranean World to the birth of modern States in 17th century in Europe, students are invited to ask themselves what is history. Its aim is to look at grand waves of history, to bending ears towards countless still small sounds emanated from it.
