

Clinical Assessment I

Syllabus Number

CLI-302

Elective

2 credit

INAGAKI, Ayako

1. Course Description

In psychological practice, the following matters are required. 1) Assessing problems which clients have has and/or have brought, 2) providing a psychological intervention based on assessment, 3) accounting for the clinical practice.

The subjects of this course are 1) substance and ethics of psychological assessment, 2) several views of psychological assessment, 3) methods of psychological interview, observation and test, 4) how to writing psychological assessment report. Students who take this course have to participant some activity works and to do role play, and to submit reaction papers on which they express one's inner experience and reflections.