

The Constitution of Japan

Syllabus Number PUL-101
Elective 2 credit
YOSHIKAWA, Tomoshi

1. Course Description

This course aims to give the students the basic understandings and knowledge on it. Japanese Constitutional law is roughly divided into two components: the structure of the government and protections of human rights. This course mainly deal with the latter by focusing on basic constitutional precedents and theories.