

Teaching Methods of Social Studies & Geographical history I

Syllabus Number

ESS-201

Teachers' License
Program Elective
2 credit

NOGUCHI, Takeshi

1. Course Description

This course aims to consider how to teach both the social studies in the junior high schools and the geographical history in the senior high schools. In class, students will be required to teach some social and geo-historical phenomena actually in the classroom of the University. In addition, students are also expected to make a brief paper related with the student's teaching every time. Grades will be based on regular attendance, completion of the assignments and periodical examination.