

History of Japanese Economy I

Syllabus Number

ECH-201

Compulsory Elective
2 credit

SATO, Mitsunobu

1. Course Description

This course will place particular emphasis on the theory of cumulative causation of Thorstein Veblen and his develop theory of culture in providing students with an economic analytical perspective. Also, this course will help students to understand the historical importance of the Japanese economic performance, the cumulative change of the Japanese economy and its place in the present world. So you will develop a critical understanding of the contemporary economic issues.