1. Course Description

In the future, when the environment surrounding companies, businesses and organizations will continue to undergo large-scale transformations, the fate of companies will depend on the skillfulness of management decision-making. The more powerful management becomes, the more governance needs to be strengthened to discipline it.

In this course, following on from Business Organization Management I, we will study the Corporate Governance Code, which was revised in 2021, in detail, and consider the ideal form of management organization, focusing on sustainable enhancement of corporate value and human capital.
