Geography of Foreign Countries I

Syllabus Number

GGR-203

Elective 2 credit

YOSHIMURA, Hisao

1. Course Description

Countries in the world exist based on their natural environment and history, which produce their coultiles, lives, tradition and industries. Therefore to learn the relationship between the backbround such as "geography/history" and current status such as "culture/people's life/traditional art/industry" leads to understand countries more essentially and deeply.

In this course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in this course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, students will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and "culture, life, in the course, life, in the course will learn relationship between "geography, climate, history" and course will learn relationship between "geography, life, in the course will learn rela industry" of major countries in the world and see how world heritages were produced by cultural and natural factors.