1. Course Description

What means the modern sociology in the global age? The sociology was founded in the latter half of 19th century and since then it has balanced between the spirit of modern capitalism and the rest of the traditional social order like human groups and organisations. Although now we enter into the overall new era when the information technique that makes possible the virtual world and avatars replaces the real world which might obey these collective imagination orders. The development of the global capitalism depends on the omnipresent financial power, whose bubbling disorder defines the limit of this power. The general opposition between the biggest three nations, US, Russia and China concentrates in the local struggle in some areas like Ukraine and Uighur region.
