

Intermediate Principles in Accounting I

Syllabus Number

ACC-301

Elective

2 credit

NISHI, Akira

1. Course Description

Accounting is a technology to report information on the financial condition, business performance, etc. of a company to stakeholders. For students aiming at business people, accounting is essential knowledge alongside the private commercial law. In accounting I, we will study the theory of financial statements.