

経済学演習Ⅰ

Compulsory 2
credit

OKUDA, Hidenobu

1. Course Description

This seminar is designed for those who are interested in the financial issues in the emerging market economy. The participants will study the financial problems in economic development from the macroeconomic perspectives (mechanisms of economic growth and financial function) and the microeconomic perspectives (economic activities of individual entities such as banks, stock markets, companies, and households). The participants may have chance to learn the methodology of quantitative analysis.