

國際政治經濟學入門 I

Syllabus Number

INR-101

[V]

Elective

2

credit

LEE, Chanwoo

1. Course Description

This course provide students with the basic understanding of international political economy, or how politics and economics interact at the global, regional and national levels.

The course is concerned with the introductory analyses in the field of international political economy and with the implications of globalization, the nature of international economic institutions, and national economic policy choices.