1. Course Description

In this course, we will discover various problems in our lives and explore the ideal way of support for improvement and solution, based on the significance and problems of lifelong learning required for social education. By grasping various issues found in society, we will understand how the issues are linked to practice in the field of social education by reading concrete examples. In the latter half of the class, we will introduce methods related to supporting lifelong learning and introduce mini-exercises to provide an opportunity to experience the practicality of support.
