1. Course Description

Today, all business entities are in the middle of VUCA (Volatile, Uncertain, Complex and Ambiguous) environment. In this seminar, we are going to use one of the cases published by Harvard Business School to understand how the leadership of an existing company addresses the challenges. Prior to each class, specific parts of the case is assigned to some participants and they should prepare presentations on the assigned parts. In the class, each assigned member is required to present the outline of the contents, Japanese translation and his/her comment on the assigned part.

A thorough preparation and an active participation in the discussion at each session are strongly encouraged.
