Data Processing II (Preparation of Presentation/HP)

1. Course Description

The purpose of this lecture is to learn data analysis using spreadsheet software Excel. You use Excel to learn the basics of statistical processing and practical data analysis. By collecting various data on your own, you will be able to understand that there are qualitative differences in the data and an appropriate processing method for each. Regardless of the field of study, you will recognize qualitative differences in the data through these practices.