

中国語プレゼンテーション I

Syllabus Number

CHI-401

Compulsory 1 credit

雷 叢晶

1. Course Description

This course is designed for senior (fourth-year students) major in Chinese. Students should confirm that the purpose of the presentation is to provide information to audiences and to be comprehended firstly, and then think about how to express their ideas in Chinese as a Japanese native speaker. A wide range of knowledge, imagination and the training of linguistic techniques are required as well as linguistic skills. The preparation of materials (audiovisual materials, distributed materials, etc.) and the provision of information in an appropriate way are needed before presentation. Therefore, discussion and group work will be conducted in this course. Final presentations that convey information of ideas, proposals, works and other information will be conducted at the end.