1. Course Description

This class aims to help students choose their career path by learning about the significance of the teaching profession, the role, qualifications, and job content of teachers, increasing their motivation for the teaching profession, and judging their suitability for the teaching profession.

For that purpose, actively incorporate group work and presentations among participants for each content of the lesson so that self-understanding can be further promoted. Through these studies, we will objectively look at ourselves, promote self-analysis and self-understanding, grasp the aptitude for the teaching profession, and clarify future issues.
