

Word Economy

Syllabus Number

8B104

Special Subjects
Elective Requisites 2 credit

SONG YU

1. Course Description

The content of this lecture will be divided into three stages. First, let's review the whole picture of the world economy from an international comparison perspective. At this time, the related economic terms will be explained simply so that students who are not the Faculty of Economics can understand. Next, we take up countries that have been talked about in recent years as case countries, and consider and analyze overseas economic circumstances and events together. Lastly, starting from Japan, rather than emotionally speaking about Japan-US relations, Japan-China relations, and Japan-South Korea relations, they understand not only the economic field but also the differences between each other, and have been handed over to the media and other commentaries. Without, we will discuss.

In this course, students will study DP1. Some contents of this course are based on practical experience.

2. Course Objectives

Students will be able to know the flow and movement of the world economy and broaden their horizons. The goal is to deepen the understanding of a diverse society through communication between students, without emotional or media-based commentary.

3. Grading Policy

Efforts during the lecture (20%), degree of completion of the work in the lecture (30%), Summary and report in the lecture on the last day (50%)

⇒ The semester report will be completed in the last day of the class, and it is possible to bring it with you other than your mobile phone.

Feedback:

Comment on work and assignments in the class, and comment before the next class.

We will announce the scoring points of the report in advance and provide feedback from those who wish.

4. Textbook and Reference

Textbook

There is no specification. Prints will be distributed every time, so please bring them together.

Reference

山本和人・鳥谷一生(編) (2019)『世界経済論:岐路に立つグローバリゼーション』 ミネルヴァ書房

丸川知雄 (2013)『現代中国経済』 有斐閣アルマ

熊野剛雄 (2019)『やさしい日本と世界の経済の話』 新日本出版社

5. Requirements(Assignments)

Preparation: About 30 minutes

You will be asked to review newspaper articles and news about the world economy, organize the contents, and have them introduced in class or submitted as paper.

Review: About 1 hour

- Review so that you can understand economic terminology and explain it to others.
- Create unfinished assignments in class.
- Organize the results of group work and communication, organize them yourself, and use them in your year-end reports.

6. Note

- In China, there is a saying that everything is difficult. In fact, it is not an exaggeration to say that the making of habits and learning attitudes during the first year are almost determined for four years at university. Make a good beginning a good habit.
- Enjoy the learning process. By focusing on the process, aim for a virtuous cycle in which good results come, you can feel a sense of accomplishment, and you want to do more.

7. Schedule

- [1] Guidance
Communication between students and confirmation of understanding of the world economy
- [2] Capitalism and Socialism
- [3] Capitalist economy
- [4] World economy after World War II
- [5] World economy in the 1970s
- [6] World economy in the 1980s
- [7] World economy in the 1990s
- [8] World economy in the 2000s
- [9] Globalization Global Economy
- [10] A growing Chinese economy
- [11] The link between the Chinese economy and the global economy
- [12] US-Japan relations

- [13] Japan-China-Korea relations
- [14] Future World Economy
- [15] Feedback & Term Report