

Seminar I

Syllabus Number

8E201

seminar

Requisites

2 credit

MIZOGUCHI, Yoshihiro

1. Course Description

Each student participating in the seminar is required to analyze the issues which the student is interested in mainly by using the method of economics (so-called modern economics). And, each student is also required to submit the result of the analysis in the form of term paper. This seminar is handled in order to acquire the ability to investigate and study the issues which each registrant is interested in.

2. Course Objectives

The goals to be achieved in this seminar are summarized in one point: "I have the ability to investigate and study problems".

3. Grading Policy

Grades for each registrant are decided on the level of the term paper submitted at the end of this seminar.

4. Textbook and Reference

Textbook

There is no text required in the seminar.

5. Requirements(Assignments)

Each session of the seminar basically consists of presentations by the participants of the seminar and discussions based on the presentations. Therefore, please prepare for the presentation. For example,

- Read the literature on the problem you are working on and put together the contents.

- Perform a survey on the problems you are working on.

And what you need to review:

- To organize the comments made during the presentation

- At the end of the seminar, based on the accumulated materials, put together the results that you have worked on in the term paper.

6. Note

7. Schedule

- | | |
|------|---|
| [1] | Guidance |
| [2] | Presentation by rotation of seminar participants and discussion |
| [3] | Presentation by rotation of seminar participants and discussion |
| [4] | Presentation by rotation of seminar participants and discussion |
| [5] | Presentation by rotation of seminar participants and discussion |
| [6] | Presentation by rotation of seminar participants and discussion |
| [7] | Presentation by rotation of seminar participants and discussion |
| [8] | Presentation by rotation of seminar participants and discussion |
| [9] | Presentation by rotation of seminar participants and discussion |
| [10] | Presentation by rotation of seminar participants and discussion |
| [11] | Presentation by rotation of seminar participants and discussion |
| [12] | Presentation by rotation of seminar participants and discussion |
| [13] | Confirmation of the content contained in the term paper |
| [14] | Confirmation of the content contained in the term paper |
| [15] | Submit the term paper |